5. Cookies

The Apartamentos Palm Beach Club website uses "cookies" to store your preferences, helping you personalize your online experience. A cookie is a text file that a web page server registers on your hard drive. Cookies cannot be used to run programs or distribute computer viruses to your computer. Cookies are assigned to you by the server in a one-to-one relationship, and can only be read by a member of the domain server that issued the cookie for you.

One of the main advantages of cookies is that they save you time. The purpose of a cookie is to inform the web server that you have returned to a specific page. For example, if you personalize the Palm Beach Club Apartments pages, or register with the Palm Beach Club Apartments site or services, a cookie helps Palm Beach Club Apartments retrieve your specific information on subsequent visits. This simplifies the process of registering your personal information, such as billing address, shipping address, etc. The next time you return to the same Palm Beach Club website, the information you provided above can be retrieved from the cookie, so the options you customized on your previous visit to Palm Beach Club Apartments will be available without your need to return. write them down.

You have the possibility to accept or reject cookies. Most Internet browsers automatically accept cookies, but if you prefer, you can modify the settings to reject them. If you choose to reject cookies, you may not be able to fully experience the interactive features of the Palm Beach Club services or websites you visit.

6. Embedded content from other websites

Articles on this site may include embedded content (for example, videos, images, articles, etc.). The embedded content of other websites behaves in exactly the same way as if the visitor had visited the other website.

These websites may collect data about you, use cookies, embed additional third-party tracking, and monitor your interaction with that embedded content, including tracking your interaction with embedded content if you have an account and are connected to that website.

7. Analytics

This website uses Google Analytics, a web analytics service provided by Google, Inc. ("Google"). Google Analytics uses so-called "cookies", text files that are installed on the computer and that make it possible to analyze user behavior on the Internet. The information generated by the cookie about the user's use of the website is generally transmitted and stored on Google's servers in the United States. In case of activating the anonymous IP option on the website, the IP address will not appear complete within the countries of the European Union or in other countries that have so agreed within the economic area of the European Union. Only exceptionally will the full IP address be transmitted to a Google server in the United States and once there it will be shortened. Only with the authorization of the user of the page, Google will use this information in order to assess the behavior of the user on the website, generate reports on the activities of the website and offer the owner of the page services related to web use and Internet. The IP address transmitted by your browser within the framework of Google Analytics will not be associated with other Google data. The user can avoid the storage of cookies by configuring the browser accordingly so that cookies are not stored. These settings may affect the full functionality of the website. The user can also avoid the registration of the data generated by cookies and those related to the use of the website (including the IP address), as well as the processing thereof by downloading and installing the following browser plugin available through from this link: <http://tools.google.com/dlpage/gaoptout>.

8. How long do we keep your data

If you leave a comment, the comment and its metadata are preserved indefinitely. This is so that we can automatically recognize and approve successive comments, rather than keeping them in a moderation queue. We maintain contact form entries for an indefinite period of time, analytics records also for an indefinite period, and customer reservation records are also kept indefinitely.
